It is likely that Georgia will lose both of her Senators. Senator Brown has a lung trouble which seriously threatens his life, and the physicians have pronounced the cancerous affection of Senator Hill as being beyond the control of surgeons. As neither of the Senators is able to attend to the business of the Senate, it is reported that both of them will resign.

That great essayist, philosopher, and poet—Ralph Waldo Emerson—was laid at rest on Sunday, the funeral taking place at his home in Concord. There was a vast concourse of people, the village being filled to overflowing, and sadness touched the hearts of all. The services were simple notwithstanding the imposing magnitude of the outward demonstrations. Among the prominent persons who participated in the services at the grave were George Wilson Curtis, General N. P. Banks, Robert G. Ingersoll and wife, and a hundred others.

The National Republican at Washington, in speaking of the debate on the Irish question in the House of Representatives, says: "The speeches of Mr. Orth, of Indiana, and Mr. Williams, of Wisconsin, delivered in the House on Tuesday, when the Irish resolution of 'Bieliehen' Robinson was under consideration, truthfully reflected the sentiment of the American people, and, it is believed, were in harmony with the views of the administration on this important subject. Neither of these gentlemen indulged in oratorical flights of eloquence, but both gave such facts and practical statements as were thoroughly convincing. Their efforts deserve high commendation, and the speeches, which are published in full in the Congressional Record, should be generally read."

A dispatch from Washington gives the latest census bulletin containing statistics of the number and size of farms and the tenure thereof in Wisconsin. The total number at the time of taking the census in 1880, was 134,322, against 102,904 in 1870, 93,270 in 1860, and 20,177 in 1850. A total of 122,163 farms are occupied by the owners, 3,719 farms are rented for a fixed money rental, and 840 farms are rented for shares of produce. There are in Wisconsin 109 farms containing 1000 acres each; over 666 farms containing 500 acres each and less than 1000; 60,296 farms containing 100 acres each, and less than 500; 4479 farms containing 50 acres each and less than 100; 2278 farms containing 20 acres each and under 50; and the balance contain three acres each and less.

When the Beckwith house was burned at Oshkosh last year, there were several lives lost, and among them was a Mrs. Page, the wife of a well-to-do businessman. When the flames were spreading with fearful destruction and had determinedly barred all places of egress for the unfortunate victims who were going down in the general ruin, Mr. Page seeing the terrible condition of his wife, earnestly offered a reward of $5,000 to any one who would bring her, dead or alive, from the burning building. He piteously entreated some one to make the venture for the sum offered. At last a fireman at the risk of losing his own life, made the attempt, and succeeded in recovering the body. The wife was buried, days passed on, and as they increased in number, the less inclined was Mr. Page to pay the $5,000. His bereavement came suddenly, and it seemed to have passed quickly, and finally he refused to pay the reward he had offered. Suit was brought by the fireman in the Circuit Court at Oshkosh, and the fireman was nonsuited, in other words kicked out of court. Judge Pulling holding that the fireman had no right to recover, even when there was a solemn promise on the part of Mr. Page to pay the $5,000. He held that it was the duty of the firemen to save "property" without reward. According to this the charred body of Mrs. Page, however sacred one may suppose it should have been held, was only a piece of chattel under the law.

Organized Charity for the Unfortunates.
There should be some organized charity to meet the sudden revolutions in fortune. Many a man driven to the wall, with prompt assistance, might stand the shock and regain his losses.

The idea of organized assistance for those who meet with misfortune is not a new or untried theory. It has been in operation in the city of Liverpool for years, and out of its workings much good has risen up. There a man who has met with misfortune applies to the society, is promptly rendered pecuniary aid, and is often enabled to pay it back with ten-fold interest. Such a society could be made equally successful in America. Say that a number of capitalists organize such a society. The necessary capital could be acquired by subscription and endowment, and be profitably invested. A man meeting with reverses in business could apply to the society, and on investigation, proving worthy, be advanced whatever sum should be thought necessary, never to exceed a stated amount, giving his note for the payment of the money with interest.

Such a society would prove of great benefit in assisting young men. Many a young man who has the genius and the ability to work out important commercial and mechanical problems, is unable to move for the want of a few hundred dollars. This money such a society might very easily advance, to be paid back in one, two or three years, at a reasonable rate of interest, or it might be returned in monthly or yearly installments. In this way the society would not often lose. Loans should only be made after thorough investigation, and upon the very best authority.

EMERSON'S FUNERAL.

Simple Ceremonies—An Immense Crowd of People.

CONCORD, Mass., April 30.—A sad Sunday has just come to an end. Ralph Waldo Emerson has just been buried with all honors possible to pay, and yet preserve his request that everything be simple. The town has been filled to overflowing with visitors, desirous in assisting in the last rites. The services at the Emerson homestead were very brief and simple, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Furness, of Philadelphia, and consisted simply of scripture reading, a short address and a fervent prayer. The body was enclosed in a plain black walnut casket, devoid of ornaments, and the silver plate bore merely the name and date of birth and death. At these services were the family, A. Bronson Alcott, the Hon. E. R. Hoar, Oliver Wendell Holmes, the Rev. Dr. Barrett and a few others. At the conclusion of the services in the house the casket was placed in the hearse and, outside the house, a long procession of mourners formed and followed to the Unitarian church, which could not hold one-third of those who wished to enter, the street outside being thronged during the services. These were also simple in nature, and the Rev. Dr. Furness conducted opening with prayer and a brief address upon the virtues of the deceased. Dr. Furness was assisted by the Revs. James Freeman Clarke and H. W. Brown, of Boston, the former of whom paid an eloquent tribute to the significance of the life and works of the dear philosopher. His work, he said, was like that of the apostle, accomplished by the power of the soul within him; that is how he became master among men.

Hon. E. R. Hoar also added his tribute to Emerson, and A. Bronson Alcott read a poem. Appropriate musical selections were rendered at intervals throughout the services by a church choir. It was noticed that there were many floral tributes, notwithstanding the family requested to the contrary. At the conclusion of the services the procession formed again, this time increased in length, and marched to Sleepy Hollow cemetery, where the remains were placed in the family tomb. The services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Haskins, of Brooklyn and President Elliott, of Harvard, Prof. George W. Curtis, General Banks, Robert G. Ingersoll and wife and a hundred other prominent people participated in the services.

Advertising Cheats.
It has become so common to write the beginning of an elegant, interesting article and then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such cheats and simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest terms as possible, to induce people to give them one trial, as no one who knows their value will ever use anything else.

JUSTICE AT LAST.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The House yesterday made a change in its roll-call by striking one vote from the Democratic side and adding one to the Republican list. It unseated Chalmers, the hero of the Fort Pillow massacre, and put in his place, as a representative of the "Shoe String District" of Mississippi, the colored contestant Lynch, who had been cheated out of his election certificate by means of tissue balloons, intimidation, and fraudulent throwing out of votes. The Democrats were utterly demoralized by internal divisions, growing out of inability to agree upon a policy of obstruction of progress upon that contested election case. When the test vote was taken more than thirty Democrats refrained from voting at all. The effect was to allow the record to show that upward of thirty of that party would not say by their votes that they believed their former associate was entitled to the seat he occupied. Perceiving how things were going Chalmers took his hat and coat and uncommodiously fled from the hall long before the roll call was completed, and, as if to give additional evidence to the verdict about to be pronounced, a Republican (Mr. Robinson of Massachusetts) interrupted the fleeing Mississippi statesman at the main door and bade him farewell.

RUSH AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Gov. Rush, Attorney-General Frisby, and several other gentlemen from Wisconsin are in the city to urge upon the War Department the necessity of doing something to prevent the overflow from the Wisconsin and Fox River improvement. The River and Harbor bill now before Congress contains an appropriation of $200,000 to be expended on this improvement, and the Secretary of War will be requested to instruct the Engineer Department to apply it to the improvement of the outlets of Lake Winnebago and lowering of some of the dams along the waterway. Gov. Rush says the lowering of the level of Lake Winnebago by increasing the capacity of the sluices and outlets and the lowering of some of the dams will prevent overflows which have heretofore caused such damage. The Wisconsin delegation in Congress have agreed to a resolution offered in the House a short time ago which directs the engineer to apply the appropriation for the Wisconsin and Fox River improvement in the manner recommended by the Legislature of Wisconsin.

It works wonders upon the Digestive apparatus. ZOPESA, from Brazil, acts as a gentle purgative, cures Dyspepsia, removes languor and low spirits, gives energy and capacity for work. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

HURLBUT'S FUNERAL.

BELVIDERE, April 30.—The funeral of General Stephen A. Hurlbut took place here this afternoon, and was attended by the largest number of people ever gathered together in Boone county. Special trains were run from Chicago, Freeport, Woodstock, and points on the branch road, and main line offices selling 4,700 tickets, while the others disposed of about 350—over 5,000 in all. As the whole population of Belvidere was on the streets, fully 10,000 men, women and children witnessed the procession and took part in the succeeding services. There was a small delegation present from Chicago, but large ones from Elgin, Aurora, St. Charles, Geneva, Dundee, Kaneville, Rockford, Freeport, McHenry, Marengo, Woodstock, Sycamore, Huntly, and other towns along the line of the Northwestern.

The regard felt by the citizens of this place for the deceased was shown in the draping of their stores and houses, nearly every building on State street, the business thoroughfare, having on it the emblems of mourning, while over the doors of many of the residences hung a photograph of General Hurlbut, the frame around which was covered with crepe.

A Significant Fact.
The cheapest medicine in use is THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL, because so very little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diaphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the throat or chest, or for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

SERGEANT MASON.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Mr. Lyddy, counsel for Sergeant Mason, had hoped the supreme court would announce its decision on the application for a writ of habeas corpus to-morrow. As the court has adjourned until Monday, May 8, the decision will not be handed down till then. Should the writ issue, Mason would be liberated as a matter of course, and if the civil authorities took no action in the premises would go unpunished, since the writ will issue if at all, on the ground that the court martial had no jurisdiction on the ground of error in its findings.

The Bound Unbound.

Chas. Thompson, Franklin street, Buffalo, says: "I have suffered for a long time with constipation, and tried almost every purgative advertised, but only resulting in temporary relief, and after constipation still more aggravated." I was told about your SPRING BLOSSOM and tried it, I can now say I am cured, and though some months have elapsed, still remain so. I shall, however, always keep some on hand in case of old complaint returning." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

Popular Astronomy—Prudence—The Constitutional History of England.

ASTRONOMICAL.
POPULAR ASTRONOMY. By Simon Newcomb, LL. D., formerly Professor at the United States Naval Observatory. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers. One volume, 572 pages; price, cloth, $2.50.

Dr. Simon Newcomb, of the United States Naval Observatory, at Washington, whose name is familiar to many readers of the Gazette, is the author of the latest and best work on popular astronomy. The book is intended for popular reading, its object being to present in language unimpaired by difficult mathematics, a condensed view of the history, methods, and results of astronomical research, especially in those fields which are of most interest at the present time. This is the fourth edition of the work, and the subjects that have been added include the latest information regarding recent developments in cometary astronomy, an account of the great telescope completed within the last three years, and observations on the coming transit of Venus. The historic and philosophical sides of the subject have been treated with great fullness, and the technical side proportionately condensed. The fairly intelligent reader will have no difficulty in following the author, and a glossary is appended, to explain the meaning of the technical terms unavoidably used. The volume is enriched with one hundred and twelve engravings and fine maps of the stars, and is fully indexed.

A WOMAN-SEARCHER.

The Disagreeable Work Performed by a Female Prison Attache.

(From the Detroit Post.)

Perhaps searching female prisoners is not one of the most grateful tasks in the world, but that is the vocation of a lady who resides in the Hawley block, and has lived there steadily in the same suite of rooms for sixteen years. Mrs. Hoose, the lady in question, is a pleasant-looking woman, still young. Nothing in her appearance could indicate any unusual strength or determination. She was not at all averse to being interviewed, nor did she seem to think there was anything unusual or unpleasant in calling.

"I don't mind it at all," she said, "when ladies are sober, but when they have been drinking they sometimes make me a good deal of trouble. They are all innocent, every one of them, at least they say they are, and when I find the goods on them they wonder how they could have got there. I searched two colored girls the other day who were accused of stealing $1,500 from a man who strayed into their den. They laughed at me and asked if I thought they wouldn't be smart to carry the money around with them. Anyhow they didn't have you many shop-lifters?"

"Yes; they are my best customers. One was brought to me not long ago who pleaded pitifully. She said she would give me all she had in the world if I would only let her go; that her husband was a respectable man and it would break his heart. I had to search her, and I found concealed under each arm, a splendid silk and bead cord and tassel. One smuggler whom I searched had no underwear on, but whole pieces of goods were rolled around her; her hair was very thick and I found several pairs of kid gloves twisted up in it. Her husband never came near her, but her brother tried his best to get her cleared."

"Do the women you search belong to a very low class?"

"I search the worst and the best. Many cases never get into the papers. Well-dressed and respectable women get drunk and disorderly, and are brought in, and they send for me to go to the Station and search their pockets for their names and address, and for morphine, as these women are all morphine chewers.

"If her husband is sent for to take her home and pay a fine, he always lays her wrong-doing to morphine. There is another class of women; old maids, who work in shops by the day, who once or twice a year go out on a spree with some gentlemen friends who are sure to accuse them of stealing their pocket-books. One man dropped his pocket-book on the street and had a lady arrested whom he had picked it up. I searched her, but found nothing, and she was let go."

"Are they very much frightened when you examine them?"

"Yes, and they offer me everything to let them go, but I tell them I must do my duty and usually coax them a little; but if they resist they know I would use main force. Sometimes I have such hard characters to search that the policemen who bring them in are afraid to let me go in a room alone with them. But they never offer me any harm. Some of them are dressed beautifully and with good taste, too. It is not allowable for the men to search them; but one respectable lady, who was brought in for shop-lifting, or 'kleptomania,' as they call it now, refused to have me search her, and the captain of the precinct searched her. I tell you it would melt a heart of stone sometimes to hear them cry and go on. The old ones get hardened to it and don't mind, but those that are new at it, just as soon as I find the goods, will will right down."

The room in which she conducts this searching operation is furnished with apertures which give the public the opportunity to watch both the inspector and inspected, thus destroying any possible chance of collusion.

A Spoiled Actor's Extravagance.

When the dresses were being selected for the Merchant of Venice all the actors were assembled in the green room and the materials were spread out before them. All the costumes were decided upon save one for a minor character, and Irving was very desirous of having a certain color or combination of colors for the said costume. At last he seized from the mass a piece of stuff about three yards square, exclaiming, "This is just the thing," and directed the man in charge of the goods to make the dress from the material.

DO YOU know, sir, that the value of that piece is one hundred guineas?"

"I did not ask the price," replied Irving.

"DO you know, sir, that it will take three such pieces to make the costume you desire?"

"Make it, then," was the answer; and throughout the run of the Merchant of Venice a minor actor in a very small part (I forget which one) appeared in a dress that cost three hundred guineas, or over fifteen hundred dollars.—London Letter in the Boston Transcript.

GAMBETTA seems to be the Mirabeau of France. Luxurious in his tastes and habits, friend of the people and a friend of order, an aristocrat and a Democrat, a patriot and at the same time an object of puzzled fear. He is a far younger man than was Mirabeau when he entered public life. It is not easy to judge what will be the outcome of his career. It will be full of the conflicts of the epoch, and have a substantial backbone.

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA from Brazil. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate. Sold by Prentice & Evans.

The name of Mand Nowlan, daughter of Mr. O. F. Nowlan, was accidentally omitted in the teacher's report of the roll of honor, published in the Gazette on Saturday. Her name should have appeared among the honored ones in the first primary department of the Second ward.

Last Friday a young hunter from the town of Fulton endeavored to fool the county clerk, by bringing in eight young foxes, and passing them off as wolf whelps. But the clerk was too well posted in natural history to be deceived in that way, and the young man went away satisfied with the fox certificate for the State bounty.

An alarm of fire was sounded at five o'clock on Saturday afternoon, coming from the Doty Works, on North Main street. The fire was in the roof, near the cupola of the foundry, but was extinguished by the employees before the arrival of the fire department. The department turned out lively, and made quick time in getting to the Doty Works.

Our readers will not forget the lecture of Rev. Father Cleary, of Kenosha, which will be given at Lappin's Music hall on Wednesday evening. railway. By this desirable route, Lake Michigan is virtually bridged, and the $2.75 is saved in the fare. The agent on the "City of Milwaukee" crosses the lake twice a day. The agent in Milwaukee, for this most desirable route, is Mr. B. C. Meddaugh, who is gentlemanly and obliging in all things, and will willingly give any information desired in regard to the route.

Messrs. Britton & Kimball received a telegram this morning, from Mr. M. S. Palmer, of Wausau, Wis., stating that his wife died on Saturday, and that she will be brought here for burial. The body will arrive on the C. M. & St. Paul train at noon to-morrow, and will be taken to Rev. Mr. Meade's residence in the First ward. The funeral will be held on Wednesday, the hour will be announced to-morrow. Mr. Palmer was for many years in the employ of Messrs. Britton & Kimball, and with his family removed to Wausau about three years ago, leaving many friends in Janesville, who will deeply sympathize with him in this sad bereavement.

Twenty-five years.

The Celebration of the Silver Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Botsford, on Saturday Evening.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Botsford, in the First ward, was the scene of an exceedingly pleasant gathering of friends on Saturday evening, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The affair was almost without previous notice, so far as participated in by the friends here, but it is understood that the relatives of Mrs. Botsford had for some time had in contemplation a remembrance of her on this occasion, all of which was studiously kept from her until just the day before. The imprudent manner of coming together, however, seemed to take away everything savoring of the formality which is so often present on such occasions, and all seemed to give themselves up, unreservedly, to having and helping others to have a good, jolly time. Indeed it would have been quite impossible for any one to see how sensibly Mr. and Mrs. Botsford appreciated and enjoyed the many hearty congratulations and well wishes of their friends, without becoming imbued with the feeling of good friendship. There were present from abroad Hon. and Mrs. C. E. Lewis, of Milwaukee, Mr. Lewis being a brother of Mrs. Botsford; Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Congdon and Mrs. Evans, of Beaver Dam, girlhood friends of Mrs. Botsford. Other relatives and early friends who had intended being present were unavoidably prevented from coming, but remembered Mr. and Mrs. Botsford in kind words as well as substantial and elegant gifts. Among the gifts may be mentioned a floral, dinner and tea set of Copeland ware consisting of one hundred and fifty pieces; silver tea set; dozen solid silver tea spoons; two solid silver napkin rings; solid silver sugar spoon; half dozen solid silver tea spoons in case; dozen silver knives; dozen silver forks; half dozen silver nut picks in case; two silver vases; silver salt spoon; silver knife rest; crystal vinegar cruet; two fancy individual salts; thirty silver dollars; thirty dollars gold; one painting on plaque.

The presence of the early friends of Mrs. Botsford made the occasion an exceedingly happy and pleasant one; and not only Mr. and Mrs. Botsford, but all who were present will look back to it with feelings of unalloyed pleasure.

The Condition of Mr. Barnett.

Mr. Frank Barnett is at the home of Mr. Isaac Farnsworth, resting quietly, but there is no material change in his condition. The facilities for his removal from Cedar Rapids to Janesville were so admirably arranged that he suffered not the slightest relapse by the long journey. Mr. Farnsworth is under the deepest obligations to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company for their generosity in providing a special coach in which to bring Mr. Barnett to this city. Mr. George Smith, their agent at Cedar Rapids, a kind and generous gentleman, also rendered valuable assistance in having the car ready and in excellent condition for the trip to Janesville, and to him Mr. Farnsworth is under special obligation. Mr. Heberling, the conductor from Cedar Rapids to Savanna, also rendered him many acts of kindness, as did Mr. Ketchum, the conductor from Savanna to Milwaukee. Mr. W. B. Noyes, the company's agent in this city, tendered every assistance possible in having the patient carefully removed from the car to the carriage. To each of these gentlemen, and to Mr. S. M. Merrill, manager of the road, who was exceedingly generous in furnishing the special car. Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth—the latter a sister of Mr. Barnett—tender their sincere thanks.

A Timely Present.

At the close of the services in the Congregational church, yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Davies, stated that the hymn books in use in the chapel were old and badly worn, that a new set of one hundred copies could be procured for forty dollars, and urged the members, who could do so, to contribute one dollar apiece that sum might be secured.

After a few had responded, Captain MacLean informed the pastor that he would present the society with the required hymn books, and further contributions to that end ceased, and all
